As the financial reporting needs of clients become more complex, Barbara Javorcic, the Firm's Chief Financial Officer since 2002, leads the accounting department in developing the most efficient ways to meet those needs. Ms. Javorcic is a licensed CPA and has several years of additional experience at public accounting, law, and consulting firms. From e-billing to sophisticated reporting, Ms. Javorcic works with her experienced staff to provide timely, relevant information to clients.

Representative Experience

Ms. Javorcic and the twelve-person accounting department handle most financial transactions for the Firm. These transactions include billing clients, paying vendors, recording receipts from clients, processing payroll, and administering the Firm's retirement plan. She and the department accommodate the electronic billing needs of clients and provide periodic summaries of billing information upon request. The Firm works with many other law firms around the world and the accounting department makes payments to them in over a dozen different currencies.
