Christian Morgan is Special Counsel in Marshall Gerstein's Trademark Practice Group. He counsels clients across a range of industries on trademark, copyright, and brand protection matters, combining extensive litigation experience with strategic, actionable advice on global trademark portfolio management and enforcement.

His litigation practice includes trademark and copyright infringement, counterfeiting, and multi-defendant Schedule A actions in federal court, as well as inter partes proceedings before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (TTAB). He has managed all phases of litigation, from ex parte temporary restraining orders and preliminary injunctions through discovery, depositions, dispositive motions, settlement negotiations, and novel damages-related issues.

Beyond litigation, Christian advises clients on U.S. and international trademark clearance and filing strategies, brand development initiatives, and risk management. He regularly develops trademark enforcement and anti-counterfeiting programs for global brands, coordinates international protection efforts with foreign counsel, and advises on online enforcement issues, domain name disputes, and customs recordations.
